

Jack Nicholls

Writer

Represented by:

Jessica Stewart

Jack Nicholls is an Olivier-nominated writer and poet. As a playwright, he has twice been a member of the Royal Court Writers' Group, with readings of his work staged at the Royal Court and Northern Stage, and one play longlisted for the Bruntwood Prize. After graduating from the BFI Script Lab, he wrote and directed the BFI Network short, "Nettle Day," a primary school-set folk horror, which premieres soon at the BAFTA and BIFA-qualifying Manchester Film Festival. He was twice one of the winners of the National Poetry Competition, and his poems have been published in many of the UK's major poetry magazines. He comes from Cornwall and lives in Manchester, where he hosts and produces the cult comedy night, "Title Fight." His debut play, The Shitheads, recently closed its run at the Royal Court Theatre, as part of the Royal Court's 70th Anniversary season, receiving great reviews and a nomination for an Olivier Award.

THEATRE

DATE	PRODUCTION (ROLE)	COMPANY	PROJECT DETAILS
2026	THE SHITHEADS	Royal Court Theatre	6th February - 14th March 2026 Co-Directors: Aneesha Srinivasan & David Byrne * Olivier Award Nomination for Best New Production in Affiliate Theatre 'A breathtaking sight... Gloriously out there' - Time Out 'Savage and sweet and entirely strange... The Shitheads demonstrates the joy of greater risks being taken on our stages' - The Guardian 'A confident, punchy, and dramatically substantial piece of theatre – exactly what you want from a new original' - The Independent 'Wonderful and energising... Exactly what a play in the Royal Court's upstairs space should be doing' - WhatsOnStage