

Alex Warren

Director

ALEX WARREN is a writer and director. His original TV series Dope Girls, co-written with Polly Stenham, is being produced by Bad Wolf, developed with the BBC.

Alex's original film, Riptide, is being produced by James Bierman. As a director, Alex's first film, a vast three screen cinematic installation - Eleanor - starring Ruth Wilson, was described as a "work of art" by the Evening Standard and featured a collaboration with The Royal Ballet.

Alex, alongside Conor MacNeill, has also written Wolves, an original TV series being produced by Storyteller Productions (Michael Lesslie & P.J. van Sandwijk) and executive produced by Steven Knight. They have also just been commissioned by Bad Wolf to develop original series, Inside Out. And their original series, The Wild Hunt, has just been optioned by Temple Hill and Anton.

TELEVISION

DATE	PRODUCTION (ROLE)	COMPANY	PROJECT DETAILS
2025	DOPE GIRLS	Bad Wolf / BBC	Original series Lead writer with Polly Stenham Executive Producer

IN DEVELOPMENT

PRODUCTION (ROLE)	COMPANY	PROJECT DETAILS
INSIDE OUT	Bad Wolf	Original series Co-writing with Conor MacNeill
BLACK LION	Stay Gold	Feature Co-writing with Conor MacNeill
WOLVES	Story Teller Productions	Original series Co-writing with Conor Macneill

SHORT FILM

DATE	PRODUCTION (ROLE)	PROJECT DETAILS
2015	ELEANOR (Writer / Director)	Starring Ruth Wilson Collaboration with writers Polly Stenham, Mike Lesslie and Anya Reiss

2014

THE DYING HOURS

Short Film / Teaser

Starring Ruth Wilson and Luke Treadaway
